GALLAGHER ACTION CONCLUDED; TO SUBMIT ARGUMENT IN WRITING

Evidence Finished Saturday Afternoon, and Counsel Asked to Submit Argument in Manuscript—Judgment May be Delayed for Week

Shortly before five o'clock on Saturday afternoon, the case for the defense in the action of Gallagher vs. Armstrong, in which an injunction is sought to restrain the council from discharging Commissioner Gallagher, was brought to a conclusion, after four of the aldermen had been examined on the stand.

Mr. Justice Stuart appeared to be of the opinion that the argument could be disposed of in half an hour, but counsel did not share this view, and as a night session was not desired, and W. L. Walsh, K.C., wished to return to Calgary in order that he might prepare for an appeal case which might come up for hearing on Tuesday morning, it was decided that written arguments should be presented. These will be placed in his lordship's hands in the course of a few days, and a decision will be given at an early date.

When it was pointed out that the injunction restraining the council from discharging Com. Bouillon is in force until the action is disposed of, his lordship remarked:

"Strictly it is desirable to decide this action as quickly as possible."

Mr. Walsh requested that his lordship should decide as to the application for non-suit, made at the opening of proceedings, before he considered evidence in connection with the case. Mr. Justice Stuart did not wish to be pursued, but stated that he would do so as quickly as possible.

Mr. Walsh's application. Accordingly Mr. Justice Stuart will give his judgment on the main case early this week. Mr. Walsh will reply at the earliest possible date. In his cross-examination of witnesses on Saturday, Mr. Biegar devoted his attention mainly to an effort to show that he had not acted in bad faith, but that he had acted in good faith. Each witness called to the stand swore that he had no personal animosity to the council, and that it was because of a conviction that Mr. Bouillon was not the right man for the position that it was desirable for him to vacate his office.

Ald. Mould said he was serving his second year as an alderman of the city of Edmonton. He introduced the motion on Jan. 18, calling for a committee to investigate the various departments. The public works committee had received complaints from the various departments during some eight months past and witness had decided it was advisable to make enquiries, especially into the building inspector's department.

Relations between witness and Com. Bouillon were during last year of the most friendly character, and there had been no enmity of any kind. So far as the alderman was concerned there was no enmity now.

Witness described the visits paid by the committee to the various departments, the fire hall, the market scale building, etc. Between the time that this round of visits was completed and Feb. 14, matters were dormant. Mr. Bouillon was ill and little could be done.

A meeting took place on Feb. 14, the auditor being the principal person interviewed. Mayor Armstrong informed witness that the commissioner wished to meet the council and discuss the points that had arisen, and in accordance with that expressed wish, Com. Bouillon and ex-superintendents of departments were present by request of witness, to give evidence in relation to the points at issue.

Two of the superintendents had previously been dismissed and it was desired to obtain reasons for this course of action. The superintendents who had resigned had given expression of their regret to the alderman, and he thought that by having them at the meeting the council might obtain a statement from them.

At the opening of the session, Ald. Mould asked Com. Bouillon how many times he had visited the new fire hall, but to answer could be obtained. Mr. Bouillon wanted all questions put in writing, but it was pointed out that some question might arise out of another it would be impossible to do this. Ald. Grindley, however, suggested that he be given time to answer any question for which time was desired, and that these might be written down.

Mr. Bouillon referred to the question for which time was desired, and "my personal enemy," and went on to say that he would not be questioned by "so-called politicians" who were not "What was the result of that meeting?"

"We could not come to any conclusions as a committee, as to what could be done, but to ask for his resignation. A resolution offering for his dismissal was passed that evening. There was 'absolutely no foundation for Com. Bouillon's allegation that he (Ald. Mould) was the commissioner's personal enemy," said witness.

Did you have any correspondence with respect to this matter?"

"I wrote me a letter. I did not reply to this, and had no communication or conversation with him respecting the matter."

Ald. Mould declared under cross-examination by Mr. Biegar that he had moved the resolution of Jan. 10, calling for an investigation of the departments, as he thought there were many matters which required explanation. If the impressions which he had formed from the proceedings of the inquiry, he thought that they were such as to discredit Mr. Bouillon and necessitate his dismissal. Witness had not made up his mind at that time.

An outline was given of the tour of enquiry and of the departments visited and dates when the visits were paid.

"Why did you go to the car barns?"

"In the general interests of the city as alderman."

"Why to the power house?"

"To see if there was any way in which we might improve matters."

The visits to the engineering and auditor's departments were for a similar purpose. It was intended to meet the commissioners at the conclusion of the inquiry and see if matters could be improved.

Is it a fact that you went to the auditor to discuss the centralization of accounts?"

"There was a general discussion of these matters. The auditor is a man who has to do with all departments, and is in a better position to be posted in regards to the matters probably than the commissioners."

Ald. Mould declared that there was a "loose system of purchasing" and that the new system of accounting it was a case of want of system or system overdone. The council wanted to find out the best way of handling purchases."

Ald. Mould said that although there was supposed to be a single accounting office for the whole city, the system did not work out successfully as yet.

Witness did not consider that the report of the public works committee advising the investigation into the departments, was in itself tantamount to a vote of censure of Com. Bouillon. He could not answer for the opinions of other parties.

Mr. Biegar read at length from a report of an interview with Ald. Mould published in The Capital, in which the alderman declared that the heads of departments had been treated in an abominable way by the commissioner, that the accounting system was over-centralized, that the superintendents should be consulted to a greater extent than had been in regard to the affairs of their departments, and so forth. Ald. Mould said "that he had been correctly reported."

Witness went on to explain why the council had at first declined to give Com. Bouillon leave of absence. It was because at that time several important contracts were coming up for consideration. When Com. Bouillon declined to give leave of absence was given.

Mr. Biegar attempted to show that Ald. Mould had made up his mind to dismiss Com. Bouillon prior to the institution of the inquiry. Ald. Mould declared that it was not until several days after the inquiry had been instituted that he gave expression to the opinion that the commissioner should be discharged.

Mr. Biegar was reading at length from a report of the session of the council committee from which the press were excluded, when his lordship intervened:

"Excuse me, I thought you said the press were not present."

"They weren't supposed to be," Ald. Mould declared. Ald. Mould thought the report substantially correct.

Witness was not aware of the reason for the public meeting to discuss Com. Bouillon's dismissal being held for a date following the time of the special meetings which were called with the object of relieving the council of the burden of the case. He did not know why the public meeting was called for Monday in particular.

Hope had been entertained by Ald. Mould that Com. Bouillon would be willing to answer questions put by the aldermen. It had been hoped that the commissioner would change his mind, although at a regular meeting of the council he had declined to appear before a tribunal of which Ald. Mould was a member.

"Why were the reporters not allowed in to this meeting of Feb. 21?"

"It was simply a meeting of the council, and it is not common to have the reporters present at committee meetings. We thought it was to the interests of Mr. Bouillon to ask the press to retire."

Ald. Grindley.

Prior to the meeting of Jan. 10, the relations between himself and Com. Bouillon had been of the friendly character. After tracing the developments which led to the special morning session of Feb. 21, Mr. Grindley described the proceedings at that meeting.

"Com. Bouillon worked himself into a rage and refused to answer any questions." It was witness' suggestion that the commissioner be allowed such time as he desired to answer any particular question, and that he be allowed to put the answers in writing. To this Mr. Bouillon would not agree. Bouillon "expressly intimated that the Mayor was a liar," said the alderman. He could not remember that the commissioner had said this in so many words.

Under cross-examination Ald. Grindley said he was vice-president of the firm of Gorman, Clancy & Grindley. He said Com. Bouillon had described certain statements of the Mayor as "incorrect" at the meeting on Feb. 14.

The motion calling for Com. Bouillon's dismissal, passed on the evening of Feb. 21, was carried without formal notice of its introduction first having been given.

Counsel suggested that the reason for a special meeting being called to confirm the dismissal of Com. Bouillon was that Ald. Hyndman, who was on the sick list, was opposed to the council's action. Witness repudiated the suggestion and pointed out that it was not common practice to postpone motions on account of the illness of one alderman.

At this point Mr. Biegar made a lengthy and highly involved statement as to the effect that "a meeting of a large number of representative citizens" had been held at the council chambers at a public meeting to condemn the action of the council, a widespread feeling of indignation against the council existed in the city, was a reason for the hasty action of the council in calling a meeting to confirm the dismissal.

When Mr. Biegar had concluded his statement, Mr. Walsh objected, on the ground that questions were being put in proper form. Witness, however, was prepared to answer to the suggestion that "the known widespread dissatisfaction existed against the council," he replied:

"I did not admit that the meeting of some seventy-five citizens in the board of trade room, in the presence of a representative gathering of citizens."

"I don't believe there was a widespread feeling of indignation against the action of the council," said witness.

Ald. Lundy.

Until the occurrence of the events of a few weeks ago, Ald. Lundy said he had been on the most friendly terms with Com. Bouillon.

At the special morning session on Feb. 21, witness had a number of questions to ask in regard to matters on which he desired enlightenment. The commissioner was asked to appear before the council, but neglected to do so for twenty minutes. Bouillon positively declined to answer questions, and went very far from the outset. The aldermen gave him every chance to answer questions, but he refused to do so.

Witness then he would answer the questions, he said—"in due time."

No benefit could be shown to the commissioner, and it was not until he began to abuse the aldermen, that the reporters were given the go-ahead.

Ald. Lundy declared that he had made up his mind that the commissioner would have to go, coming down in the street car on the evening of Feb. 21, before the council meeting. Witness was satisfied that there were questions that Com. Bouillon could not satisfactorily answer. He cited cases of Mr. Bouillon's alleged lack of tact in the handling of men, in connection with the first department certain matters had come to his notice. A number of cases of Com. Bouillon's lack of tact between Feb. 18 and 21.

As to the exclusion of the press, Ald. Lundy pointed out that he was present for the press to remain. Ald. Lundy declared that in conference of the council on this question, it was thought that points of business detail reflecting adversely on Mr. Bouillon might be brought out, and that in the commissioner's interests the session should be private. Mr. Bouillon had not had much objection to make as to the "secret character of the session."

Ald. Dr. McInnis.

Ald. Dr. McInnis said he had been a member of the council since 1907. He had not clashed with Com. Bouillon until the difficulties arose in the spring of the present year.

Dr. McInnis described the course of events in the council meeting of Feb. 14. Two superintendents had been dismissed and he asked the Mayor for the reasons. The Mayor was unable to say, and witness remarked that it was a strange thing that two superintendents should be dismissed without the Mayor knowing the cause. When Mayor Armstrong said he did not know the reason, Com. Bouillon jumped to his feet and pointed to his worship saying: "You know that is not correct."

Evidence corroborative of that of other witnesses in regard to the meeting of Feb. 21, was given by Dr. McInnis.

Re-examined by Justice Stuart, Ald. Mould said that the commissioner was questioned as to why he had called the meeting of Feb. 21, in order to ascertain whether he had inspected the building. Superintendence had been taken on of the hands of the architect, and it was desired to learn whether this had been taken up by the commissioner.

Witness was asked whether he had any further questions to ask the commissioner. He replied that he had no further questions to ask.

TRUE COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT THE REAL NECESSITY

If the Bouillon, incident, with all its aggravations and annoyances, has done nothing more for the city of Edmonton, it has at least accomplished one good purpose. It has taught the citizens that the form of government under which the city is administered is not the form of government that a large, growing, up-to-date community like Edmonton demands.

That this is true is evidenced absolutely by the incidents of the past month. When a stranger from a strange city, bearing no recommendations except his own press notices, can walk into the community, secure without inquiry into his antecedents, characteristics or predilections, an appointment which places in his hands unlimited power and can maintain that position in spite of the elected representatives of the ratepayers, the fact that such things can be done is of itself sufficient evidence that the arrangement under which it can be done is wrong.

An arrangement which permits an appointed employee to arrogate to himself the authority of an autocrat, which gives him the privilege of flouting, insulting and ignoring the men who constitute the very body which appointed him, which makes him answerable to no one except himself, and which makes it necessary to await the adjudication of the supreme court in order to accomplish his recall, is manifestly and patently wrong, and no greater tribute to the toleration of the citizens of Edmonton was ever paid than the fact that they accept the situation calmly and await so patiently the verdict of the court.

In cities like Des Moines, Spokane, Galveston, Houston and Cedar Rapids, where the true commissioner system is in force, no commissioner could do as Mr. Bouillon has done—hold his situation after there was a popular demand for his discharge.

The true commission form of government places the power directly in the hands of the electors, makes the office of commissioner subject to election and dispenses altogether with the office of alderman, governing the city by the direct and continuous force of public opinion.

In Des Moines the man who offers himself for the office of commissioner does so with the understanding that he gives his whole time to the city, that he becomes a servant of the people, and that he holds his position subject absolutely to the pleasure of the ratepayers who elect him.

When it becomes apparent that a commissioner is not living up to his advance notices, the process of ousting him from office could never lead to the supreme court. The only formality necessary is to secure a petition signed by 25 per cent of the number of ratepayers who voted for the highest man at the last election, and his office becomes vacant upon the presentation of the same to the city clerk. To get back into office he must again go before the electors and secure a majority vote against any candidate who may present himself.

Des Moines elects commissions of five men, and watch those men. When the citizens decide that the men they have elected are not the right men for the office they eject them and elect others.

Under the Des Moines system the administration of the city is divided into departments. Men elected are placed at the head of these departments and made answerable for the same. When a department fails to make good, the ratepayers know exactly where to place the blame, and they have the option of immediately recalling the commissioner who is responsible for the failure.

By the initiative, ten per cent of the electors of Des Moines have the right to bring to a popular vote any measure which the council may refuse to pass, and a popular vote in favor of the measure makes it law in spite of the elected representatives.

By the referendum, ten per cent of the electors of Des Moines have the right to bring to a popular vote any measure which the elected commissioners may have passed, and an adverse vote is a veto, which kills the measure in spite of anything the elected representatives may do.

Under the Des Moines plan no man or member of a firm having contracts with the city can hold office as commissioner, or in any other capacity.

Under the Des Moines plan absolute publicity is required. Every month the commissioners must submit for publication detailed statements of the business of the month, showing receipts and expenditures in every department, so that every citizen may know exactly what is going on in the city hall.

Under the Des Moines plan commissioner meetings are open to the public and the press. Public business is done publicly. The law forbids hole-in-the-wall meetings.

Under the true commission form of government the city pays for service and gets it. It's greatest recommendation is that it is working successfully in more than one hundred cities in United States, and in many of these cities it has displaced machine administrations entrenched by years of successful encroachments, handing back the city administrations to the citizens to whom it properly belongs.

In adopting the commissioner form of government, Edmonton would have few radical changes to make. It is not beset by partisanship in municipal politics, it has never had the ward system and it is enmeshed by no machine.

To make the change complete it would be necessary to tear the present charter up and throw it into the wastepaper basket, but to do so would be no hardship considering the involved nature of the present charter and the trouble it has led the city into. If there was substituted therefor an instrument which simplified the administration so that the citizens would be always in control and would know immediately where to place their condemnation in case of failure at any point, the change could not be too quickly made for the benefit of the city.

The Capital does not claim to know all that is to be known about the science of civic administration, but it does claim that the true commissioner system has proven such an unqualified success in such cities as have tried it that it is worthy of investigation by the city of Edmonton—especially in the light of its recent experience.

William J. Locke.

William J. Locke, a brilliant English writer whose books and plays have met with much favor in America, was born in Barbados, March 20, 1867, and received his education at Queen's Royal College in Trinidad and at Cambridge University in England. After finishing his education for some years devoted his attention to architecture, being secretary of the architectural institute, British Architects and holding membership in other distinguished architectural bodies of Europe. His first book, "At the Gate of Sundry," was issued in 1895, and has been followed by a number of popular stories. "The Beloved Nargah," "The Master of Marcus Greyne" and "Simple Sentences" being best known in America. The two last-named have been dramatized.

WAR, BEAUTIFUL WAR

(Toronto Star)

People should be taught at the Mexican revolution. It is doing the best it can. Humanitarians will regard it as a distinct advance if the armies of hell before they are within firing distance of each other and fire their ammunition into the intervening air. This shows how practical experience can put it all over theory. Of all the plans that have been suggested by wise and thoughtful men for making war harmless there is none to equal this one worked out by the plain people of Mexico.

Henry Ward Beecher was upon one occasion in the midst of an eloquent political speech when some wag in the audience cried like a cock, "It was too perfect to perfection and the audience was in a state of laughter. Even the great orator's friends felt uneasy at the interruption of the interruption."

But Mr. Beecher stood perfectly calm. He stopped speaking, listened till the crowing ceased, and with the audience was laughing, he pulled out his watch. Then he said: "That's the cause. My watch says 'only ten o'clock. But there can't be any mistake about it. It must be morning, for the instincts of the lower animals are absolutely infallible.'—Ladies Home Journal.

FOR CONSTIPATION

A Medicine That Does Not Cost Anything Unless It Cures.

The active medicinal ingredients of Rexall's, which are absorbent, cathartic, and coloring, is an entirely new discovery. Combined with other extremely valuable ingredients, it forms a perfect bowel regulator, intestinal invigorator and strengthener. Rexall's is eaten like candy and is not only for their carelessness to the palate and gentleness of action. They do not cause griping or any disagreeable effect or inconvenience. Unlike other preparations for a like purpose, they do not create a habit, but instead they overcome the cause of habit secured through the use of ordinary laxatives, cathartics and harsh physic, and permanently remove the cause of constipation or irregular bowel action.

We will refund your money without argument if they do not do as we say they will. Two sizes, 25c. and 50c. Sold only at our store—The Rexall Store, A. Archibald.

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have Pin Of Good Blood In Her Body.

Mrs. Daphne P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.S., says:

"In the spring of 1907 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took three remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as he had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive today is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do. I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken a few doses I was able to do all my work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1909 I had Puerperal fever, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. Every morning when I would get out of bed I had to sit down for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters the pain disappeared completely. It has also cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that you may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC PLANNING GOOD ROADS

MONTREAL MOTORISTS AS A CLUB KEEP UP STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN THAT RESULTS IN THEIR BEING GRANTED THEIR DEMANDS FOR IMPROVED THOROUGHFARES—GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCES WHAT IMPROVEMENTS ARE TO BE MADE AND BIG SUM IS TO BE SPENT THIS SPRING.

The persistent efforts of Montreal motorists has resulted in their obtaining a promise from the government of a big improvement being made during the present year in the roads throughout the province. The premier, Sir Lomer Gouin, speaking on the subject, said:

"There is no doubt the time has arrived when our government should do something out of the ordinary in the way of getting good roads. This is a very live subject in Ontario and the United States, and we do not intend that this province shall be left behind in this matter."

"At the next session of the legislature it is our intention to deal specifically with this question of good roads, so as to stir up municipalities to recognize the importance. We have recognized the fact that modern road-making machinery is very expensive, and requires expert handling, which places it beyond the reach of the ordinary parish or small municipality. This has had a bad effect in retarding the work of building proper highways."

"In order to overcome this we have decided to buy a supply of these machines, such as steam crushers, steam rollers, etc., and place them, with competent operators, at the disposal of the different municipalities. One of these outfits would cost about $10,000, which plan is to buy a series of these outfits is pretty big for a parish. But our aim is to secure the necessary engineers, and use them once for each of various counties, the whole outfit being lent to parishes within the county. This will probably be arranged for at next session."

"The result will be," said Sir Lomer, "that the work of improving provincial roads should receive a great impetus, with modern machinery working under the best conditions in many municipalities. It will, of course, cost a good deal of money, but I do not think the province's funds could be spent in a more useful manner, nor one in which the people would so speedily reap the benefit. Hon. Mr. Caron is hard at work preparing his plans for this, and will be ready at the next session to introduce the necessary measures."

OFFER IS ACCEPTED.

The officers of the Wisconsin State Automobile Association have accepted the offer of the J. I. Case Traction Machine Co., of Racine, Wisconsin, and will use a Case Traction car, during the annual state reliability run next July, for the technical committee, who will lead the way in the Wisconsin state reliability run.

The company received an acceptance of the offer signed by James T. Drought, of the executive committee.

BASKETBALL TO-NIGHT.

Dormats and Wanderers will clash tonight in the last big game of the season.

One of the most hard fought games in the basketball league series is expected at the Y.M.C.A. this evening when the Dormats and Wanderers meet in their final game in the Big Three League. Indications are that both teams are stronger than they have been since the opening of the season, and a most exciting match may be anticipated. The game will start at 9 p.m.

The Dormats have had frequent workouts of late in preparation for tonight's final game, and last night's fine game contest, under the captaincy of Mr. Britton. Ash will be on hand again to play with the Wanderers. The teams will be as follows:

Dormats.

Dunham, Duncan, Pink Watt, Britton and Clark.

Wanderers.

Ghown, Ash, Cranston, Gormack and Freeman.

Ireland	3	2
England	3	2
Scotland	3	3

THE REWARD

We sent our son to college—We're tickled, yes indeed—His higher education—Has filled his every need; It makes, past any doubting, Success easy thing; A big league team, he tells us, Will take him south this spring.

His mother hoped to see him Well up in classic lore; She rather feared to writing, But I had hoped for more; What, pray, is bookish knowledge? Unto a pitching wing? Well, truth with the big leaguers Down South this very spring.

It's cost us lots of trouble, Not speaking of the cash; But, since rewards come swiftly, Rejoice would be rash; The money and the worry—It's all worth while, by jing! A big league team will try him—He trains down south this spring.

FINE HORSES GO UNDER HAMMER.

New York, March 20.—The auction sale of Paul A. Sor's great stable of show horses at Durand's Riding Academy this week is exciting keen interest among exhibitors and horse fanciers all over the United States and Canada and in Europe as well. The big stables that will go under the hammer include the polo hackney Vanly Fair, which at Long Beach last summer beat Lady Dillingham, three times the small champion of the National Horse Show. The team of trotters to win the Arrowhead cup last fall in the race to the Garden will also be offered. The Sor's stable A. G. Vanderbilt's team by ten minutes.

GREAT CRUSH AT ARKANSAS SPRINGS

BIG LEAGUE BALL PLAYERS ARE SO THICK THAT THEY ARE FALLING OVER EACH OTHER—MEN ARE RAPIDLY ROUNDING INTO SHAPE AND WILL BE IN THE PINK OF CONDITION BY THE TIME THE SEASON OF 1934 OPENS FOR PLAY

Hot Springs, Ark., Mar. 20.—This cosmopolitan camp just from its base ball population to-day the squad that claims allegiance to James McLeary, but it expects to gain, within a week or two, in place, a delegation three or four times as large in the Pirate band, which stops at West Baden on the way to Washington players, some of whom have been here a fortnight, left for Atlanta to join the main band of Senators. In the departing players were Milan, Johnson, Conroy, Walker, Schaefer and McElreid, the latter being captain in command. They have had an enjoyable and a profitable time here and Manager McLeary will have no reason to regret their visit.

So many players are here that the departure of a half-dozen is hardly noticed. In fact, players seem to be coming and going all the time. There are so many here that the advantages that might otherwise be enjoyed are curtailed because there is not room for all to perform. The Browns and the Reds had arranged for dividing the time at Majestic Park, one of the ball yards, alternating mornings and afternoons. Sunday morning was Bobby Wallace's turn for his squad, but the early part of the day was cold, so the Browns doubled up with the Red crew in the afternoon. As a result, about 10 ball players were on the field at one time and naturally things could not be given the detailed attention that an anxious manager desires. Wallace has fretted so much over the situation that it would not be surprising if he had given his team back to that old St. Louis earlier than he had intended.

Americans Beat Dodgers.

While Reds and Browns were covering at Majestic Park, over in Whitman Park, the other end of the city, the great Washington liner has been given an extra chance here lately, team made up of American leaguers, played a Brooklyn squad a rip-roaring nine-inning game, one of the features of which was the arrest of the manager of the park for permitting a Sunday performance. The "dub" has been given an extra chance here lately and baseball, it seems, is included among the things under the ban.

Another feature of the All-American Brooklyn game was the initial appearance of Walter Johnson on the mound. The great Washington liner has been playing the outfield in some preliminary contests, but this was his first game in the field in a grand fashion and largely as a result of his work the Americans showed the Dodgers the scoreless shut-out 11 to 0.

The Browns and the Reds are getting ready to take the ball tossers along at a lively clip.

Schardt, the big right-hander secured from Milwaukee, doesn't look up as if he needed to take off any weight. He is well over six feet, but doesn't pack any extra weight. He reminds one of Vic Willis.

Daubert is using arch supporters in his base ball as well as the street shoes this year. Jake believes the arches will prevent a player from going flat-footed, which means loss of speed. Every one is looking for him to have a wonderful year.

REAL ESTATE BULLETIN

In the business sections Jasper Avenue, centre and west, are again in good demand, with spur track lots also required for.

In residential property, whole blocks of Glenora and Inglewood in the West End, are required for with Norwood and Delton in the East. In houses, the rush is just beginning, but promises to be lasting, as home-seekers are realizing more fully with each day's experience of "house-hunting" that suitable houses cannot be rented.

Have we had the pleasure of supplying your wants in this line? If not, we shall be pleased to have you call and lay your requirements before us, when we will do our best to satisfy your promptly.

NEWS OF THE CITY

The C. N. R. was five hours late in arriving on Saturday, having been detained by a snow storm in Saskatchewan.

Mrs. J. B. Gardner and daughter will receive for the first time Friday, the 24th inst., from 1 to 6 o'clock at 555 Victoria avenue.

The Epworth League of Grace Methodist church will be entertained this evening by the League of Methodist Methodist church.

The Ladies' Aid of the Wesley Methodist church, Fourteenth street, will hold a sale of work and home-made cooking on March 30th.

The Girls' branch of the Hospital Aid will meet this Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock in All Saints' schoolroom. All girls are invited to attend.

There will be a meeting of "C" Company, 101st Regiment, in the Separate School basement on Tuesday, March 21st, at 8 p.m. sharp. Every man of the company must be in attendance.

The death occurred on Saturday afternoon of Helen, the six-months-old daughter of Edward Sillitoe of 1129 Seventh street. The funeral will take place this afternoon, the Rev. F. W. Sweeney officiating.

Judgment will be handed down this afternoon by Mr. Justice Stuart in the actions of Parr vs. Wickham, Melvin Lumber Co. vs. Goldsmith, and Perseus vs. Cline, which were tried in the supreme court last week.

The Nelson against P. M. Brovack, charged with wounding on the complaint of J. Truley, was adjourned to the city police court this morning by Magistrate Gowan. The case will come up for hearing on Monday next.

There will be a meeting of the trades and labor council in the trades hall this afternoon, at which the question of the enforcement of the fair wage clause of the high-level bridge contract will come up for discussion.

A term of two years in Alberta penitentiary will be served by Stanley Asp, convicted before Judge Taylor in the district court at Vermilion on Thursday last of the theft of two driving bristles and a riding bridle for the farmer of the district. Asp has a record of one previous conviction for a similar offence. He served two months at Fort Saskatchewan for theft last year.

Judge Taylor suspended sentence in the case of Jesse Gaslon, convicted of assisting in the theft of a bicycle, and stealing two riding bristles. Judgment was reserved in the case of Hayward vs. Ahyon, and in the case of Collins vs. Hayward a decision was given in favor of the defendant.

A. C. Lacey, chief license inspector of the province, returned on Saturday from a trip through the south end of the province. He states that conditions in the south, so far as the observance of the liquor license ordinance was concerned, were very good.

J. Parker, charged with cattle wounding in the district court at Lloydminster on Friday last, was discharged by Judge Taylor on the ground that sufficient evidence of the wounds having been inflicted by the accused had not been produced. The action was brought on the complaint of Jas. Murray.

Miss Cecil Smith of Alberta college, graduate of the Currie School of Expression, is giving some readings from Gilbert Parker at the Y. W. C. A. concert in McDougall church on Tuesday evening. Miss Smith is a delightful interpreter of French-Canadian life, and is always welcomed by an Edmonton audience.

Large audiences attended the special evangelistic mission in the First Baptist church yesterday. At the close of the young service a large number expressed a determination to live a Christian life. These services will continue each evening this week beginning promptly at 8 o'clock and ending at 9:15. A cordial welcome to all.

The death occurred on Friday night of Mrs. H. Scott of 521 Kingsway street. The funeral took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, the Revs. J. E. Duval and F. W. Myers officiating. Mr. Scott, who survives his wife is deputy Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. deceased was associated with the heliograph's lodge, many members of which attended the funeral.

More boys are needed to take part in the annual picnic of the Dufferin Rifles, of Brantford, Ont., who is a member of the firm of J. S. Hamilton and Co., owners of the Police Island vineyards, Lake Erie, paid a flying visit to Edmonton yesterday, on his way east from the Pacific coast. Mr. Hamilton has extensive interests in Western Canada, and in conversation with the Capital last evening, he expressed amazement at the rapid advance in prices of Edmonton property.

BOOKSELLERS AND STATIONERS OF PROVINCE ORGANIZE

At a meeting held in Calgary on Wednesday at which representative booksellers and stationers from all over the province were present, the Alberta Booksellers' and Stationers' Association was formed for the purpose of promoting the interests of its members and to secure friendly co-operation among them.

This is the only association west of Ontario. The position of honorary president of the association went to the dean of the stationery trade in this province, J. C. Linton of Calgary, president and P. E. Osborne of Calgary as secretary-treasurer. These gentlemen have associated with themselves as an executive committee D. J. Young and L. C. Wilson of Calgary, J. G. Robertson of Lethbridge, C. S. Fennie of Medicine Hat, and W. J. Stephenson of Red Deer.

OBJECT TO RE-OPENING OF SLAUGHTER HOUSE.

The request of the P. Burns Co. that they be allowed to convert their premises to operate their slaughter house in Northwood, pending the completion of a $250,000 plant in the vicinity of the Swift Packing Plant, does not meet with the favor of Northwood taxpayers, and at a meeting held in the old "Old Fellows" Hall, Northwood Boulevard, on Saturday evening, at which Mayor Armstrong had before the citizens the Burns' proposal, a resolution was unanimously carried, to the effect that on no account should the slaughter house be reopened.

The old "Old Fellows" Hall was crowded to its capacity, and nothing could be more emphatic than the expression of opinion by citizens resident in the neighborhood of the abattoir, that the plant should not be reopened upon any conditions.

GOES TO PENITENTIARY.
A term of two years in Alberta penitentiary will be served by Stanley Asp, convicted before Judge Taylor in the district court at Vermilion on Thursday last of the theft of two driving bristles and a riding bridle for the farmer of the district. Asp has a record of one previous conviction for a similar offence. He served two months at Fort Saskatchewan for theft last year.
